

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

To alleviate the absolute value control accuracy of phases in a mask having a groove shifter structure, transfer regions formed at different planar positions on the same plane of the same mask are subjected to a multiple exposure by scanning exposure. Although identical mask patterns are formed over the transfer regions respective groove shifters provided to these mask patterns are arranged opposite from each other.